

Safety Nets for Managers (Inspection) Training

Falls from heights remains one of the biggest causes of fatalities and injuries in the construction industry today. Use of safety nets can reduce the risk but only if those safety nets have been installed and maintained correctly.

As an employer you must make sure that work at heights is managed by risk assessment, proper planning, supervision and that it is carried out by competent and well trained people. This applies to the use of safety nets which must be inspected every seven days or after adverse weather which can be costly if an independent company is used.

CITB NI is facilitating the delivery of a short training course which will provide participants with a certificate of competency for three years to inspect safety nets on site. Training will be delivered by G&M Safety Netting Ltd, a FASET accredited provider, and participants will learn to plan for and manage the installation of safety nets, and to identify faults and take remedial action.

Who would benefit from this training?

Safety Net Inspectors could be:

- Site Managers
- Site Foremen
- Health and Safety Officers
- Anyone with responsibility for Working At Heights where safety nets are used.

Certification
